GEMSBOK-KIMBERLEY: Onteiening van grond sonder vergoeding sal in die Noord-Kaap geïmplementeer word om die landbousektor op te knap en te hervorm, sê President Cyril Ramaphosa.

Dit het hy onlangs tydens 'n byeenkoms in Kimberley gesê.

"Ons het gesê dat ons grondhervormingsproses, wat 'n besluit op die 54ste konferensie oor onteiening van grond insluit, is wat gaan gebeur - en dit sal ook hier in die Noord-Kaap gebeur," het Ramaphosa gesê.

Die President was optimisties oor die vooruitsigte vir die landbou in die provinsie in 'n poging om die trae ekonomie en die somber werkloosheidskoers te versterk.

Noord-Kaapse premier, Zamani Saul, het vroeër die provinsie se ontransformeerde ekonomie beklaag en gesê terwyl wit mense slegs 7% van die bevolking uitmaak, besit hulle 85% van die land.

"Dertien persent van die grond word deur swartes en bruin mense besit, terwyl die regering 2% besit," het hy gesê.

Ramaphosa het in alle erns probeer om klaers oor werkloosheid en armoede, hoop te gee. "Ons sien die Noord-Kaap as 'n sonsopkomsprovinsie, as 'n provinsie met baie belofte en baie geleenthede, 'het hy gesê.

Hy het gesê dat daar baie 'verlate' grond in die provinsie is, wat, as dit benut word, die potensiaal het om werk te skep.

Hy het ook kennis geneem van die potensiaal vir projekte vir hernubare energie in die streek. "Die Noord-Kaap het son en wind, dus kan ons met energieprogramme begin ... Ons kan energie in die nasionale netwerk inpomp," het hy gesê.

Ramaphosa het nie gepraat oor die mislukking van dienslewering in die provinsie, waar paaie beskadig is, riool deur die strate loop en huise wat deur die staat geborg word, verval het nie.
